Monologue PERSONALITY

	The text of the monologue	Vocabulary, Grammar Structures, Linking Words and Phrases
Step 1. Introduction 1. Start with a hook sentence that will attract the listener's attention, a quote, a proverb, etc. 2. Lead your speech steadily to the main part of your talk. 3. The introduction may consist of 3-6 sentences.	Salvador Dali said: "I have always seen what others have not seen; and what others have seen, I have not seen." The painter means that each person is unique. It is impossible to meet two completely identical people. Under the influence of nature and society, a number of characteristic qualities that identify each person is formed. Based on these considerations, we can talk about the existence of different personality types.	I have always seen what others have not seen; and what others have seen, I have not seen. The painter wants to say that is formed Personality types
Step 2. Personality Types 2.1. Speak about two personality types (extroverts and introverts). What tells you more about a person's personality: their clothes, their body language, their voice, their tastes or something else? 2.2. What personality types would some jobs (e.g. a computer programmer, a researcher, etc.) attract and why?	Nowadays psychologists distinguish 2 personality types: extroverts and introverts. They say that a person's attitude to the world depends on it. And it's really true. Extroverts are cheerful, easy-going people who are ready to support practically any idea. Besides, they like to be in the center of attention and are usually loved by people. Extroverts are often different from their appearance. They do it with the help of bright clothes or unusual hairstyles. Such people make friends easily. Thanks to their sociability, they are good team players and often have the role of a leader in their team. On the other hand, introverts are their complete contrast. They are quiet, level-headed and shy people who prefer solitude to noisy companies. They always think and consider before taking action. Moreover, these people always keep their temper and stay calm under pressure. They are usually focused on the career and are highly successful due to their organized nature. In everyday life introverts try to blend with the crowd, so they prefer calm colors and classic styles of clothes. Psychologists believe that a personality type also influences a person's choice of a profession. Undoubtedly, it is easy for energetic and sociable extroverts to work in the spheres where it is necessary to interact with people. That is why the representatives of this personality type often work as managers, teachers, doctors and even hosts and events planners. While adventurous extroverts enjoy interacting and exchanging energy with other	Psychologists Extroverts Introverts A person's attitude to the world Cheerful Easy-going Besides Are different from their appearance Make friends easily Are good team players On the other hand Quiet Level-headed Shy Think and consider before taking action Moreover Keep their temper Stay calm under pressure Are focused on career Psychologists believe that Undoubtedly Energetic Sociable Adventurous While adventurous extroverts enjoy interacting and

Additionally, introverts become programmers, engineers or realize their creative potential working as writers or artists.	exchanging energy with other people, reserved introverts will not be thrilled Are engaged Additionally
Step 3. Charisma 3.1. What is charisma? Give an example of a charismatic personality and explain why you find him/her charismatic. 3.2. Is charisma the most important quality to possess if you want to be successful in your career? If not, what other qualities are important?	Charisma is the ability to attract and inspire people, to encourage them to do some actions. Definitely, it is easy to distinguish a charismatic person among the crowd. Such people must have been born with natural magnetism, invisible energy with visible effect. They are always self-confident. They are always sure in their actions and ready to meet the consequences of these actions. You can give many examples of such people, but personally for me, the most charismatic person is Johnny Depp. He is known not only as a great actor but as a heartthrob as well. He steals the scene with his game. All his characters have nothing in common with each other. Many movies cannot be imagined without the game of this magnificent actor. This effect is achieved due to the fact that Johnny plays roles that are close to him. He immerses in a role even villains, played by him, become attractive and appeal to us. It is impossible to disagree with the fact that charisma plays an important role in our lives, including our careers. It is especially in open view in the creative spheres. But is the existence of this feature sufficient for becoming a professional in a certain field of activity? Of course not. Certainly, the presence of charisma helps people to get others to themselves, but the lack of necessary skills will reduce the effect of charisma to zero. Let us suppose there is a charismatic musician who attracts everyone while communicating. But his charms cut up when he starts playing and does not hit the notes. It becomes obvious that he will never succeed if he does not work on improving his skills.	Charisma Inspire people To encourage them to do some actions Definitely Must have been born You can give many examples But personally for me Is known Is achieved Immerse in a role Played by him It is impossible to disagree with the fact Certainly Let us suppose It becomes obvious that he will never succeed if he does not work on improving his skills
Step 4. CREATIVE THINKING Introduce your own extra idea(s) on the topic that hasn't/haven't been mentioned before. Justify your choice.	I think every person would like to find out what personality type he or she belongs to. And now there is an opportunity to do it. Numerous studies have been conducted in the field of psychology, on the basis of which personality tests have been compiled. They contain questions from different areas of life to identify the preferences of a person. According to the results of the test, you can not only determine your personality type, but also learn various recommendations, for instance, how to choose a field of activity that will be pleasant and comfortable for you. In my opinion, it must be quite an interesting experience. It will be especially useful for those who have not chosen a profession yet or who are disappointed in their current career.	I think Psychology personality tests For instance In my opinion must be
Step 5. Conclusion Summarise the ideas of steps 2,3,4.	To summarize, I want to refer once again to the words of Dali, who said that everybody is a unique individual. It is indeed true. Each of us has both extrovert and introvert characteristics. Some qualities are more vivid, and others on the contrary are almost imperceptible. In any case, a human is a very	To summarize I want to refer Unique individual Has both extrovert and introvert characteristics In any case
