

Active Vocabulary: 28

Grammar Structures: 4/4

Linkers: 13

Total: 693 words

Monologue on LANGUAGE

You are going to give a talk about LANGUAGE.	The text of the monologue	Vocabulary, Grammar Structures, Linking Words and Phrases
Step 1. Introduction 1. Start with a hook sentence that will attract the listener's attention (a quote, a proverb, etc.). 2. Lead your speech steadily to the main part of your talk. 3. The introduction may consist of 3-6 sentences.	Voltaire said: «Knowing many languages means having many keys to one lock». In this quote, the lock is other cultures and languages are the very keys that allow you to plunge into these cultures. Now there is a cult of self-development and self-education, due to which more and more people are beginning to learn languages. And that is great!	Voltaire said In this quote more and more people are beginning to learn languages
Step 2. Learning Languages 2.1 Speak about the reasons for learning foreign languages.  2.2 What sort of people do you think make the best language learners? Which aspects of English (listening, reading, grammar, vocabulary, etc.) do you find the most difficult?	There are numerous reasons why learning English is essential. It offers a fully-supported cause, providing individuals with the opportunity to participate in a language training programme that enhances cognitive abilities. By studying English, one can adapt to different dialects and effectively communicate in a foreign language. Becoming fluent in English enables individuals to hold intelligent conversations with native speakers, broadening their horizons and facilitating connections with people from other countries.  However, achieving success in learning English requires overcoming various challenges. Grammar rules can be complex and require dedicated effort to grasp. Additionally, learning new words and their proper usage demands consistent practice and comprehension. Listening skills can also pose difficulties, as understanding spoken English requires focused attention and exposure to different accents. What about me, the most difficult part of studying is learning new words.  Despite these challenges, those who persevere and actively engage in improving their foreign language skills can reap numerous benefits. They avoid falling behind in their careers and increase their chances of receiving certificates that validate their language proficiency. Furthermore, developing accurate pronunciation and a good	a fully-supported cause a language training programme adapt to different dialects communicate in a foreign language Becoming fluent in English hold intelligent conversations with native speakers However Additionally What about me improving their foreign language skills falling behind in their careers receiving certificates Furthermore developing accurate developing good accent Ultimately

	accent enables individuals to communicate fluently and confidently in a native or foreign language. Ultimately, English fluency opens doors to new opportunities, both professionally and personally.
Step 3. The future of English 3.1 Speak about the benefits of knowing English in contrast with other foreign languages. 3.2 What language do you think may become a global language in future?	Undoubtedly, English is one of the most important languages in the world. It is a widely-spoken language, prominent in international business, academia, and the fields of computing, technology, and science. It serves as the working language of the United Nations and is expected to become even more dominant in diplomacy, trade, shipping, and the entertainment industry in the future. As the United States is projected to become the largest economy in the world, English will continue to be the lingua franca of global communication. With its widespread use, learning English provides a broad understanding of different cultures and opens up numerous opportunities for personal and professional growth. Given these factors, it is clear that English will remain the most popular language in the future. Its influence in various aspects of society makes it an essential language to learn for anyone looking to succeed in a globalized world. Also if we talk about the future of languages, then, I think, English will not give up the leading position, at least in the near future. Now Chinese is gaining momentum, so soon it will be next to English. German, French, Spanish are spoken by a large number of people, but I think that none of them will dominate. As for Russian, I cannot predict its future, but I want the area of its and its popularity among foreigners use to increase.	Undoubtedly widely-spoken language prominent in international business the working language of the United Nations the largest economy in the world to be the lingua franca of global communication a broad understanding of different cultures Given these factors Also if we talk about the future of languages, then, I think, English will not give up the leading position, at least in the near future are spoken I want
Step 4. CREATIVE THINKING Introduce your own extra idea(s) on the topic that hasn't/haven't been mentioned before. Justify your choice.	When communicating in a foreign language, it is crucial to follow certain rules in order to avoid creating confusion. One must define a register and find the right balance between being formal and informal. Making spelling and grammar mistakes is inevitable, so proofreading one's writing is essential. It is also important to share and post personal information responsibly and to use correct grammar and spelling. Using formal or informal language appropriately is key, as using inappropriate or abusive language can harm relationships. Building trusting relations across different societies requires clear communication and the ability to talk at cross purposes. In conclusion, it's important to watch your language and communicate effectively in English for success in a globalized world.	to avoid creating confusion define a register find the right balance between being formal and informal Making spelling and grammar mistakes proofreading one's writing is essential. share and post personal information to use correct grammar and spelling Using formal or informal language inappropriate or abusive language using inappropriate or abusive language Building trusting relations across different societies cross purposes
Step 5. Conclusion Summarise the ideas of steps 2, 3, 4.	In this essay, we have discussed language learning, the future of English, and avoiding mistakes when speaking in another language. In

	particular, we have considered why people learn languages and how they learn them, the benefits of English, and which language will dominate in the future. Therefore, learning a foreign language is essential because it opens up new opportunities, broadens one's horizons, and offers many advantages that are very useful in everyday life and career. Let's continue to learn languages!
--	--	--